TAMMANY ALDERMEN PROVIDE FOR TWO OVER THE EAST RIVER.

COUNCIL INDORSES ONE OF THE PROJ-ECTS-NAMES OF SEVERAL STREETS CHANGED-LAST MEETING OF THE

PRESENT BOARD OF ALDERMEN. There was an end yesterday to the first Municipa Assembly of the greater city. The Board of Alder-men, which has been the lower house of the Assembly for two years, went out of existence. The new Board of Aldermen will be organized on Tuesday. The Council will continue in existence two years longer, unless it is abolished by the Legislature at Albany, but according to an opinion by Corporation Counsel Whalen all business left unfinished at yesterday's session of the Municipal the next Municipal Assembly. The most important work accomplished in the closing hours of the first Municipal Assembly was the ratification of the Tammany scheme to build two more bridges across the East River. This meant the rejection of the Controller's plan to build tunnels instead of bridges.

The resolution was adopted by a vote of 45 to 10, but not until Alderman Stewart had questioned the count and Chief Clerk Blake had called the roll a second time. Alderman Byrne protested vigorously before the second roll call, declaring that Alderman Stewart had no right to question the honesty of the clerk. Mr. Blake was angry. He had acted as clerk for nearly twelve years, and his word had never been questioned before.

BLACKWELL'S ISLAND BRIDGE.

The next business brought to the attention of the full fine of the proposed Blackwell's Island bridge.

As soon as the resolution was announced there was much dodging of the members. Several of the Tammany Aldermen left the room. Aldermen James J. Smith and Frederick F. Fleck were among James J. In the mean time a joint committee from the Council and Aldermen had agreed that the Assembly should adjourn at 12 o'clock, but to give more time the clock was turned back three hours. The Aldermen passed the Kingsbridge Road franchise, the rate of compensation for which was fixed by the Board of Estimate a few weeks ago. A resolution was adopted, apthorizing $475,000 for the purchase of new police station sites in differents parts of the city.

Resolutions were adopted thanking President Woods, Vice-President Gledhill, Chief Clerk Blake and others for their services.

The Aldermen concurred in the resolution changing the name of Mall-st, to Van Cott Place.

At 1:30 o'clock a committee of Councilmen announced that the hour of 12 o'clock was approaching and that the Council was going to adjourn. The remaining business was rapidly disposed of and the Board adjourned sine die.

Andrew H. Green was seen at his home, No. 81 Park-ave., yesterday, and in reply to an inquiry as to whether or not the Brunswick Hotel, Fifthave, and Twenty-sixth-st., had been sold to a synhotel on the site, said that no sale of the hotel property had been consummated. "It is true that an effort is being made to acquire the property." he said, "but nothing definite has been arranged as yet. Some of the owners are in favor of the sale, and others are not. That is all there is to it. As soon as the Brunswick Hotel is sold I shall know something about it."

Under instruction from her owner the dog took gifts in her mouth from under the tree and distributed them among the visitors. At the dinner which followed Frolic sat at the head of the table with a napkin around her neck, and partock of the good things that were passed around. Last year the dog also had a Christmas tree. proved the resolution adopted by the Aldermen providing for the erection of the East River Bridge from Pike Silp to Brooklyn.

The Council also approved the resolution passed previously by the Board of Aldermen relating to the Kingsbridge Road franchise.

A resolution offered originally as a "slap" at the Controller, providing for a tunnel to the Borough of Queens at a cost of $1,500,000 was laid over.

The Council approved the resolution authorizing the expenditure of $475,000 for new police station sites.

The resolution providing for the issuance of $35. pay $1,800 a year to his father's wife, Clara K. Waring, from whom he had been separated. It was agreed that on the death of Edmund War ing half his real estate was to go to Mrs. Secor, if she were then alive, and if not it was to go to her children. William Waring was to receive the other half. A number of other agreements were subse-quently made, with the intention of revoking this Company was made trustee in his place of the personal estate. The real estate had been previously divided by one of these agreements. The Union Trust Company, as trustee, paid 4.80 a year from the real estate up to the death of Edmund Waring, for his maintenance, by virtue of an agreement executed in 1881, changing the terms of the original agreement. Considerable litigation arose, and on William's death his wife Frederika, took charge of the trust, and the Union Trust Company sued her to recover the trust estate and got judgment against her. Then a general agreement was made, on February 19, 1897, between the trust company and other parties for the distribution of the estate and the cancellation of the trust in the personal estate. The money was all paid out by the trust company under this new agreement, and then the fresh litigation was begun, which was ended yesterday.

Fernando Baltes, as executor of the will of Edmund Waring, brought suit to compel the Union Trust Company to pay all the money over again under Edmund Warings will to him as executor, on the ground that the trust of 1876, and the subsequent one of 1881 could not be abrogated by the consent of the parties.

By this will Mrs. Secor was to receive the bulk of her father's estate, and as her brother, William, died prior to his father's death her children fail in for all the property.

The judgment loses much of its significance on account of the understanding by both parties to the action that it was little more than an order pending a decision by the Appellate Division. Wheeler H. Peckham, of counsel for the trust company, said last night that even if Justice Bookstayer's decision were upheld it would simply mean that the trust company would pay over the money as the Court directed and then recover it from those who shared in the prior distribution. rust. #### FRESH TRADE DEVELOPMENTS.

The combination of American manufacturers effected by Consul General Dickinson at Constanti-nople, a few months ago, for the establishment of a permanent exhibition at the Turkish capital, has grown rapidly since the start was made. The number of members has increased from 66 to 108. The American end of the enterprise is in the hands of W. S. Bigelow & Co.

There is a market for barrel staves in Bordeaux capable of absorbing 80,000 tons of material a year. The United States Consul there says that the ness, or "bolt," that can be sawed in two before eing finished. The Consul urges American pro ducers to study the situation. The wood should be clear, and absolutely without worm holes and checks. The bolts ought to be a meter (39.37 inches) long, and from 4 to 6 inches wide. Owing to a belief that the American stave is harder to worm and that it will not last as long as the Austrian, a preference is manifested for the latter in Bordeaux.
